My Multicultural Background and Fashion Career

I am honored to share with you my multicultural background and fashion career. As someone with a European passport, born into an Arabic family, and raised in Saudi Arabia, I have a unique perspective on cultural sensitivity and fashion.

Growing up in Saudi Arabia, I developed a strong understanding of our cultural wardrobe and style. Through living and working in both Arabic and European regions, I have accumulated a wealth of knowledge that I bring to my work.

I use my expertise to bridge the gap between traditional and modern Arabic fashion. Whether it is for men, women, or children, I have an inherent sensitivity to what is culturally appropriate in a conservative environment and what is acceptable as a modern contemporary Arabic style.

My career has led me to work with various governmental institutions, including being a cultural advisor and stylist for a Dubai Government film and Saudi Airlines.

My wardrobe truck has been designed to carry a variety of clothing items, including G.C.C thobs, Abayas, and Western outfits. Whether I need to attend an Arabic-themed event or a Western-style gathering, I have everything I need in my wardrobe truck.

In addition to the clothes, the truck also features a sewing machine and all the necessary supplies. This allows me to make any last-minute adjustments to my outfits, ensuring that I always look my best.

Overall, my wardrobe truck is an essential tool for my work in the fashion industry. With everything I need in one convenient location, I can focus on my clients and their needs without worrying about transportation or supplies.
